ed over 6,000 bushels of oats this season up age Company, has been laid up by illness for some time.

lack of sacks, but large consignments arrived on Thursday's train.

G. H. WHARTON has leased half of the lower story of the old fire hall and will remove his store there shortly.

The new electric light dynamo which arrived on Thursday's train weighs 14,940 lbs., and the freight from Montreal was $434.50.
Today is a public holiday, consequently the government offices, bank and schools are closed. Places of business are also generally closed.

Matthews, photo artist, Edmonton.

The present town council will meet on Wednesday night and may hold another meeting before the new council holds its first meeting on the third Monday in January.

A FAREWELL dance in honor of W. Kelly, formerly of the Alberta hotel, was given by a number of his friends in Robertson hall on Thursday night on the occasion of his early departure to the Pacific Coast.

The election of trustees for St. Joachim's Roman Catholic separate school district will be held in the Catholic Mutual Benefit Association building on Third Street, H. B. reserve, on Friday Jan. 5th, commencing at ten o'clock.

The electric light was turned on on Saturday evening, much to the relief of the citizens whose lives have been made miserable by the necessity of hunting up lamps and making all kinds of shifts, awaiting the renewal of the light.

The Winnipeg Commercial mentions that oats have declined in price to 23c to 24c at country points and 25c to 30c on track in Winnipeg, with a prospect of a still further decline. This may cause a drop in Edmonton prices.

The death of Mrs. Chas. Sandison occurred on Friday night at eleven o'clock. Deceased has been ill for some weeks of congestion of the lungs induced by influenza.
She was a sister of Mayor McCauley. The funeral took place yesterday afternoon from the residence of Mr. Sandison to the Presbyterian church where an impressive sermon was preached by Rev. D. G. McQueen, and thence to the Edmonton cemetery. The funeral procession was one of the largest ever seen in Edmonton.

J. W. BENGOUGH, the world's greatest cartoonist, is about to revive "Grip" the illustrated comic paper which he founded and conducted so successfully in Toronto for many years, and which was discontinued shortly after he severed his connection with it. Mr. Bengough's trouble during the last year of his connection with Grip was the big head. He got the idea that he was not only issuing a high class comic paper, but that he was thereby drawing general of the world's affairs. His short release from duty has probably changed his mind on that point, and no doubt he will now issue a better paper than ever.

The Calgary Tribune gives an account of the sudden death of Major John Stewart formerly of Ottawa, in Calgary on the night of Friday Dec. 22nd. About 6 o'clock he complained of his head, saying to his wife he would retire. She accompanied him to his room and after remaining some time was called to another part of the house for a few moments. On her return to his room she found him unconscious. Medical aid was at once summoned and in a few moments two doctors were in attendance and an examination found him to be suffering from a fit of apoplexy from which he never rallied, dying about 9 o'clock. The deceased belonged to an old and much respected Ottawa family. Since coming to the Northwest he has been connected with cattle ranching and with the Anthracite coal mines. He has resided in Calgary since 1880. He leaves a wife and four small children, the youngest being an infant a few weeks old. Mrs. Stewart was the third daughter of Hon. James Skead, of Ottawa, at one time a lumberman on a large scale. The body was sent east on Saturday night's train to be interred in Ottawa.

Post office open to-day from 7 to 9 p. m.
PUBLIC school election on Thursday, at the council chamber.

MUNICIPAL elections to-morrow. Vote early and often for re-election in local matters and for railway connection.

As important by-law to permit ratepayers who are otherwise qualified but who have not yet paid their taxes, to vote at the elections to-morrow was passed on Friday night. As a considerable portion of the year's taxes are yet unpaid the vote would have been much smaller under the old by-law than it will be now.
Without discussing the propriety of the original by-law, or of its repeal, the fact that every ratepayer is now allowed to vote would seem to indicate that the members of the retiring council who are offering for re-election are not afraid of the popular verdict regarding last year's proceedings.

MAJOR MCGIBBON inspector of Indian agencies, who arrived on Thursday from Saddle Lake, reports the Indians of that agency in a good position for the winter.
There is very little sickness amongst them, crops have been good not being injured by frost, and game is fairly plentiful. The steam grist mill at Whitefish Lake is running and has already ground several hundred sacks of flour, greatly to the delight of the Indians. The mill is under the management of J. G. Oliver. There is also a saw mill in connection. Snow is about the same depth at Whitefish Lake as at Edmonton, but in coming to Saddle Lake from Battleford Major McGibbon used wheels. He considers that the Indians are making substantial progress towards self support under agent Ross.

FORT SASKATCHEWAN, ALBERTA.

A crowded congregation met in the Roman Catholic church here, on Christmas eve, to assist in the celebration of Mid-night Mass. The Rev. Mr. Dorais was the officiating priest. After high and low mass respectively, the musical portion of the service was rendered by the choir. Numbers as follows:

Minist Chretien, solo by Jos. Chabot, harmonized sixth tone mass.

Chabot and Derome.

Dorais.

mass, by the choir.

Hymn, by Messrs. A. Guertin, C. God-bout, O. Derome, Jos. Chabot, Miss A.
Dorais and the balance of the choir.

Hymn, solo by Miss A. Dorais and choir.

The church was very prettily decorated and reflected credit on the Messrs. Marcond and F. Dorais, who had charge of the work.

EDMONTON BULLETIN, JANUARY 1st, 1894.

The report of the finance committee of the town council recommending that Mayor McCauley be granted $500 in consideration of faithful services during the past two years, will be generally approved by the ratepayers, outside of the fact that a large number of ratepayers had petitioned to have such a sum granted. The theory that the honor of being mayor is sufficient compensation for the time employed is not sound when reduced to practice. In a new country such as this, where every man is struggling to improve his condition, very few if any men who are fit for the position can afford to accept it and bear the whole of the loss entailed. The result is that in many cases where public clash with private matters the latter receive first attention, simply because the occupant of the position cannot afford to do otherwise. It is necessary that there should be active supervision of the town affairs by a responsible head. That supervision cannot be expected unless the person who supervises is indemnified from personal loss. As a business transaction, it will pay this or any other town to give its mayor a sufficient indemnity that he may be able to give a considerable amount of personal attention to the working of municipal affairs instead of leaving everything to chance. It should be remembered that an indemnity is an altogether different thing from a salary. A salary is supposed to be the sole support of the person who receives it and as such is a prize or inducement to a candidate to win his election. An indemnity is a sum paid to a person who has other means of support in consideration of the loss of time and money incurred in attending to the public business and is not supposed to be sufficiently large to be a material inducement to secure election. It is compensation for loss of time not payment for services rendered.

MUNICIPAL GOVERNMENT.

Commercial.
The municipal elections in Winnipeg on Tuesday last resulted in the return of three lawyers and one real estate dealer, while only one business man, in the five wards in which there was a contest, was elected. The full council of twelve aldermen now consists of five lawyers, three real estate and insurance agents, two wholesale merchants, one contractor and one member who cannot be described as belonging to any particular business or profession. This is certainly a peculiar position for a city like Winnipeg to be placed in. Winnipeg is almost solely a commercial city. The fact that it occupies the position of the natural distributing centre of a vast territory, is the only thing which distinguishes it from the rural towns of Manitoba. Without its distributing or jobbing trade, Winnipeg would be nothing more than an ordinary Manitoba country town. The fact that it is a natural distributing point, has led to the establishing of a large number of trading institutions here, and made Winnipeg what it is—the commercial metropolis of Western Canada. There is not another city in Canada which is so purely a commercial city as Winnipeg, and whose existence depends so completely upon its distributing trade. In manufacturing we have made but little progress, and what manufacturing we have depends upon the position the city has attained as a commercial centre. The wholesale trade is in fact the one feature which has made the city what it is to-day. Any other enterprises established here, beyond the requirements of an ordinary country town, have been drawn here through the importance of the city as a distributing centre. In the light of these facts, it does seem strange that the municipal government of the city should be in the hands of lawyers and agents.

QUEEN'S COUNSEL.

The news which arrived on Thursday that an order in-council had been passed in Ottawa creating Messrs. N. D. Beck and S. S. Taylor, barristers of Edmonton, Queen's counsel, was received with favorable comment not only by friends and acquaintances of the two gentlemen but also by the public of Edmonton generally. The appointment of Queen's counsel, is entirely honorary, but at the same time is very much desired by members of the legal profession, not so much on account of the precedence which it gives the appointees over other members of the profession in matters of etiquette, as because it is a formal recognition of the professional and personal standing of the parties honored. It is also to some extent an acknowledgment of the standing of the place in which those honored reside and as such can be appreciated by all. In olden times the title carried with it certain important privileges and obligations but at present these have fallen into disuse. In the older provinces the honor is never granted a barrister of less than ten years standing, but exceptions to this rule have been made in the Territories before. These appointments are supposed to foreshadow to some extent the early establishment of a separate judicial district of Northern Alberta, with a resident judge. A short sketch of the professional careers of the new Queen's counsel may not be out of place:

N. D. Beck, is the son of the Rev. J. W. R. Beck who was rector of the Church of England parish of Peterborough, Ontario, for many years, until his death four years ago. Mr. Beck was born in Cobourg, Ontario, in May, 1857, but grew up in Peterborough. He pursued his studies in Peterborough and Toronto, where he took the degree LL. B. at Toronto university. He began the study of law in Peterborough, and afterwards studied in Toronto with the firm of Robinson, O'Brien & Tizard. At the same time he compiled the law reports for the Toronto Mail and Canada Law Journal. He was called to the bar as attorney and barrister in 1879, and practiced law in Peterborough as a member of the firm of Hatton & Beck, until October of 1883. He then removed to Winnipeg where he practiced alone and in various partnerships until 1889. Amongst those with whom he was associated in Winnipeg was Mr. Prendergast, provincial secretary in the Greenway government, and A. E. McPhillips, now of Vancouver. In March of 1889 he removed to Calgary to become a member of the firm of Loughheed, McCarthy & Beck. In September of 1891 he removed to Edmonton as a member of the firm of Beck & McNamara. In October last this firm was succeeded by the present firm of Beck & Emery. Mr. Beck is crown prosecutor for the North Alberta judicial district and also solicitor for the town of Edmonton.

S. S. Taylor, who probably enjoys the distinction of being the youngest Q. C. in Canada, is the son of Stephen B. Taylor, lumberman of Havelock, New Brunswick, where Mr. Taylor was born in 1865. He took an arts course in Mount Allison university, Sackville, New Brunswick, from 1881 to 1883, and then studied law in the office of his uncle, C. A. Stockton of St. John, N. B., where he remained two years. He then took a full law course of two years in the university of Michigan at Ann Arbor, and graduated in 1887 with the degree of LL. B. In the same year he was called to the New Brunswick bar as an attorney, and in October 1888 as a barrister, by Sir John Allen, chief justice of New Brunswick. He remained in the law office of C. A. Stockton, St. John, until April of 1889, when he came to the Northwest, with the intention of settling at Lethbridge, but finally came to Edmonton, where he succeeded Geo. A. Watson, in the law business. In December of 1891 he took into partnership his cousin H. C. Taylor, also of St. John, New Brunswick, forming the present firm of S. S. & H. C. Taylor. Mr. Taylor has been very successful since coming to Edmonton, professionally and in business matters, and now occupies a position in the bar of the Northwest which fully justifies the honor conferred upon him.

WETASKIWIN.

The year 1894 opens upon this prosperous little town, where 20 months ago the rancher's cattle roamed at will, and where the first nail in the formation of a town had not been driven. Wetaskiwin now consists of 2 hotels, 3 general stores, 2 livery stables, 1 hardware store, 1 saddler's store, 1 furniture store, 3 agricultural implement stores, 1 drug store, 1 butcher store, 2 blacksmiths, 2 lumber yards, several bakeries, 1 barrister, 1 dentist and a number of private houses, the whole having an air of prosperity which would naturally cause a stranger to ask from whence comes the source of its busy appearance. Such stranger will in the best way receive an answer to this question by driving 20 miles east, west, north and south, and seeing the large numbers of settlers thickly dotted over the open prairie lands, which have proved so attractive to all classes of immigrants on account of the excellent loamy soil and the ease with which it can be cultivated in consequence of the small amount of brush. Two years ago the only residents within many miles were a few large ranchers and a number of Indians and half breeds, but now there are probably more farmers than on any equal space north of Calgary.

The district being so newly settled, it follows that scarcely any lands have been cropped more than one or two years, but these during the last year have produced excellent crops. Several farmers have threshed 50 to 60 bushels of oats from lands after the first breaking in April last. Prices of all produce are now high, as the supplies are not sufficient for the new settlers who are constantly coming in.

Farmer's prices for oats and barley 35c per bushel, potatoes 60c, beef 5 1/2c, pork 10c.

Messrs. Macdonald & Ramsay shipped 65 fat steers for British Columbia last week from their ranch where they now have upwards of 400 head of cattle.

Coal is being shipped from White Mud near Edmonton and delivered at $5 per ton.
